

Research and Brokerage Intern

About:

Karbone Inc. is a fully-integrated financial services firm that specializes in renewable and conventional energy markets. The firm houses key strengths in Capital Advisory, Brokerage, and Research services. Over the past decade, Karbone has successfully helped its clients secure long-term revenue contracts, funding sources, and key analytical insight to help them achieve their investment and trading goals.

Responsibilities:

- Work with full-time Desks to facilitate transactions for various classes of energy and environmental commodities across North America
 - Power, Capacity, Renewable Energy Credits, Carbon Credits, Fuels Credits
- Build knowledge of market developments, regulations, legislation, and industry trends
- Help construct analytical deliverables for distribution internally, with potential to publish on market-wide basis
- Develop contact databases and generate leads
- Ad-hoc operations and media related tasks

Qualifications:

- Previous finance, research, and/or business development experience a plus
- Educational background in finance, economics, sustainability, or a related field
- Interest in and basic understanding of energy and environmental markets
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Strong interpersonal skills and a track record of successful teamwork
- Tech. skills including advanced Excel (VBA) and/or coding skills (Python, C++, etc.) a plus of Positions: 2 - 3 Openings

Location: New York, NY

Start Date: Immediate

Duration: Min. of 1 full business day per week for Summer or Academic Semester/Year

Application: Please submit CV to jobs@karbone.com